General Comment

I am opposed to the restrictions that would be imposed on my ability to trade options on my IRA account. I know how to trade options properly and have been able to enhance my performance numbers and reduced the risk in my portfolio. Although there are people out there that may not know how to properly trade options, the information to learn is readily available.

I feel that I should have every available tool at my disposal so that I can continue to build my retirement account and provide adequate income during my retirement years.
